ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A label sheet with a protective film includes a printing sheet having a printed side on which information is printed by a printer, the printed information being visible at a backside of the label sheet, a transparent or semi-transparent adhesive layer formed on a side of the printing sheet opposite the printed side so as to be separable, a transparent or semi-transparent protective film placed on the adhesive layer, and a looped cut line formed in the printing sheet so as to encircle a predetermined region of the information reversely printed on the printed side of the printing sheet. The information includes a peripheral region other than the predetermined region. The peripheral region is separated along the looped cut line such that the adhesive layer is exposed.
